The mission of Hong Fook Center is to help frail elderly and disabled adults remain in the community with their families as long as possible, thereby preventing the need for institutionalization. The goal of Hong Fook Center is to maximize or maintain the participant's level of independence and to restore optimal capacity for self care. Our multidisciplinary staff is trained to provide care and is sensitive to the needs of a multicultural population. Our bilingual staff includes those who speak English, Chinese, and Korean.

Our Harrison Street center is the second ADHC program developed by Family Bridges, Inc. The center is a multi-disciplinary, bilingual, bicultural program of health and social services serving at-risk frail and disabled Asian adults. The goal of the Center is to maximize or maintain the participant's level of independence and to restore optimal capacity for self care. The Center now takes special pride in providing appropriate linguistic and cultural staffing and programming for approximately 60% monolingual Chinese-speaking and 40% Vietnamese-speaking clients.
