In a protected environment, the professionally trained staff at South County Adult Day Services (SCADS) provide supportive supervision, structured stimulating activities, socialization, and physical, occupational and speech therapies for physically and emotionally frail adults. A caregivers support group and educational programs to build knowledge and coping skills are provided for families who avail of needed respite. SCADS provides the participants with social opportunities they may not be able to otherwise receive, leading to a reduction of stress, an increase in self-esteem and promotion of effective communication skills. Friendships are found in the secure environment giving mental, emotional and physical strength to older adults who thrive on the love and attention provided.
